NETANYAHU AT WAR

Last March, the tumultuous relationship between Benjamin Netanyahu and Barack Obama reached a new low. Over White House objections, the Israeli Prime Minister traveled to Washington to attack the President's signature foreign policy legacy, the Iran nuclear deal. FRONTLINE traces the stormy history of the United States-Israeli relationship through the eyes of Obama and Netanyahu, two men with fundamentally different views of the world. For Obama, his election in 2009 provided a chance "to recast the United States as a friend of the Islamic world," says White House insider Sandy Berger. But, for Netanyahu, Obama's vision of the Middle East threatened Israel's existence. Told through riveting footage and interviews with political insiders in Jerusalem and Washington, Netanyahu at War provides the essential context needed to understand the ongoing feud between Netanyahu and Obama and how it could shape the future of the Middle East. 2X60 HD

WALT DISNEY

Walt Disney offers an unprecedented look at the man who created a world and built an empire. Uniquely adept at art as well as commerce, Walt Disney was a master filmmaker who harnessed the power of technology to tell stories of outsiders struggling for acceptance and belonging, while questioning the conventions of class and authority. As Disney rose to prominence and gained financial security, his work became increasingly celebratory of the American way of life that made his unlikely success possible. A polarizing figure—though true believers vastly outnumber his critics—Disney's achievements are indisputable. AMERICAN EXPERIENCE examines Disney's complex life and continuing legacy, featuring rare archival footage from the Disney vaults, interviews with biographers and historians, and the animators and designers who helped turn his dreams into reality. Walt Disney is both an inspiring story and a cautionary tale about the price of an empire. 2x112, 4x54 HD

INSIDE EINSTEIN'S MIND

On November 15, 1915, Albert Einstein published his greatest work—his general theory of relativity. This theory transformed our understanding of nature's laws and the entire history of the cosmos, reaching back from the present moment to the origin of time itself. Now, NOVA tells the inside story of Einstein's masterpiece. From the first spark of an idea to the discovery of the expanding universe, the Big Bang, black holes and dark energy, Inside Einstein's Mind uncovers the inspired insights and brilliant breakthroughs of "the perfect theory," perhaps the greatest science story of all time. 1x53 HD

Bonnie & Clyde

Bonnie Parker and Clyde Barrow were the most famous criminal couple in US history. During the height of the Great Depression, their gang evolved from petty thieves to nationally known bank robbers and murderers, joining the ranks of other gangsters of the era like John Dillinger, Pretty Boy Floyd and Baby Face Nelson—so called “public enemies” who captured the imagination of Americans laid low by the Depression. Newsreels across the country flashed images of a pixyish Bonnie, handgun on her hip, and handsome Clyde, with his custom suits and Browning automatic rifles, turning them into the underworld's dark prince and princess of crime. In reality, Bonnie and Clyde grew up in the slums of West Dallas and had little in common with their glamorous media images. Their two-year crime spree ended when the couple was betrayed by a friend and shot dead at a police roadblock in Louisiana on May 23, 1934. 1x52 HD

Movies in Wartime: Projections of America

As Allied forces liberated Western Europe in WWII, the military campaign was accompanied by a vast propaganda effort that centered around 26 short documentaries about American life targeted at the newly liberated populations. The “Projections of America” films presented American stories of cowboys and oilmen, immigrants and school children—capturing both the optimism and the messiness of American democracy. These films were created by politically engaged filmmakers, who, while fighting tyranny abroad, also wanted to fundamentally change America itself. The story is told through rare archival materials, including pristine new transfers of the propaganda films interwoven with interviews with filmmakers, original audience members and film critics. 1x53 HD

The Perfect Crime

The murder of a fourteen-year-old boy by two wealthy college students was shocking enough, their motive more so. Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb had planned to abduct and kill a child at random to prove they were smart enough to get away with it. Black Panthers: Vanguard of the Revolution

The rise and fall of the Black Panther Party during the 1960s and beyond is a story of a growing pride in black culture, and more militant demands for justice and racial equality, with a cast of larger-than-life personalities including: Huey Newton, Bobby Seale, Stokely Carmichael, Malcolm X, Eldridge and Kathleen Cleaver, and Fred Hampton. Renowned documentarian Stanley Nelson masterfully assembles rare archival footage that contextualizes the history of the Panthers—began in response to racism and police brutality. The Black Panthers does not hesitate to critique its subject, nor does it shy away from judging the corrupt activities of J. Edgar Hoover's FBI or the countless shoot-outs, raids and arrests that were the response of local police. It is a history that needs to be told to understand today's incendiary racial landscape. 2x54, 1x114 HD

UNDERSTANDING OUR PLANET

Making North America

For the first time, NOVA reveals how startlingly different North America's ancient past was compared to today—giant marine reptiles once swam over the cornfields of Kansas, Central Park was part of a mountain range as high as the Himalayas, and gigantic super-eruptions almost tore the continent in two just before the dinosaurs rose to rule the land. To visualize the vanished landscapes and the hidden forces that shaped them, the series features live-action CGI animation sequences that lift the lid off of North America, stripping away the ancient rock layers to reveal the past. 3x53 HD

Life's Rocky Start

Four and a half billion years ago, the young earth was a chaos of meteorite impacts, volcanoes and lightning flashing through a thin atmosphere. With no protective ozone layer, ultraviolet radiation sterilized Earth's hot, bleak surface. Then, in a process that has puzzled scientists for decades, the first microbes took hold. In Life's Rocky Start, dynamic geophysicist Robert Hazen advances a startling and counterintuitive idea—that the rocks beneath our feet were essential to jump-starting life. As Hazen journeys to spectacular locations from Hawaii to Morocco, we discover that as microbes flourished and took over the biosphere, hundreds of minerals we know and depend on today were born. 1x60 HD

Earth: The Inside Story

Trace the geologic story of our home planet, beginning with its formation four-and-a-half billion years ago and continuing with its evolution to the present. Shot in top geologic hot spots on all seven continents and interspersed with footage of earthquakes and volcanoes, this film features a diverse group of leading geologists who reveal the latest thinking about how the Earth works. With recent news coverage of major earthquakes, tsunamis and volcanic eruptions, people are asking whether or not Earth's natural systems are undergoing a period of intense upheaval. This film lends scientific perspectives in an attempt to answer that very question and reveal the latest understanding of the 4.5 billion-year-old Earth. 1x57 HD

The Girls in the Band

In the 1930s and '40s, female musicians toured the country in glamorous all-girl bands, while others played side-by-side with their male counterparts. But by the mid-1950s, female jazz musicians had disappeared from the music scene. The Girls in the Band reveals the poignant, untold stories of female jazz and big band instrumentalists and their groundbreaking journeys from the late 1930s to the present day. These incredibly talented women endured sexism, racism and diminished opportunities for decades, yet continued to persevere, inspire and elevate their talents in a field that seldom welcomed them. 1x62, 1x88 HD

Jerome Robbins: Something to Dance About

No other creative figure of the latter 20th century was as contradictory as Jerome Robbins, and few were as controversial. He was a master of the Broadway musical and was one of the greatest ballet choreographers this country has ever produced. The first and only documentary on Robbins profiles this complex mid-century artist and features excerpts from his personal journals, archival performance footage and never-before-seen rehearsal recordings, as well as interviews with Robbins himself and over forty of his colleagues. Despite his professional successes, Robbins' most important legacy was the humanity of his art. "Give me something to dance about and I'll dance it," he once told Irving Berlin. As this film shows, in the theater and in dance, he did that over and over again. 1x120 HD

In Defense Of Food

What should we eat? Until the early 20th century, the answer to this question was simply dictated by what was grown nearby, readily available and unspoiled. But 100 years later, the struggle over what to eat has become one of the most complicated, confounding and urgent battles facing the world. Based on Michael Pollan's best-selling book, In Defense of Food shows how a combination of uncertain and incomplete science, politicians and clever marketing campaigns have shaped the world's eating habits in ways that have made us continuously less healthy. From crowded American supermarkets to the vast plains of Tanzania, In Defense of Food examines how the modern Western diet, especially as it has evolved over just the past few decades, is doing serious damage to our health. 1x54 HD

Biology 2.0: When Biology Becomes Synthetic

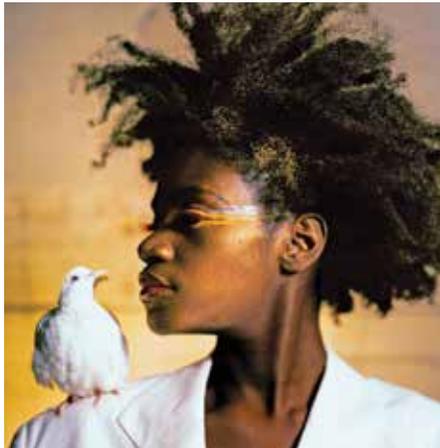

After the dramatic advances in genomics, 21st century biology is heading for a revolution: synthetic biology. The consequences are huge, but the potential applications are promising. From the production of energy to new bio-materials through the environment and medicine, synthetic biology could usher in an era of greater efficiency, cheaper costs and lower pollution. Biology 2.0 discovers what nature would never have made and what man is in the process of creating. 3x60 HD

Surviving Alcatraz

On June 11, 1962, bank robbers Frank Morris and brothers Clarence and John Anglin escaped the prison walls of Alcatraz and set off on the waters of the San Francisco Bay in a homemade raft. Up until this day, it is not known whether or not the three of them made it to land or if they ended up somewhere out in the Pacific. Now, for the first time, three Dutch scientists are using their work on flood risk assessment and mapping tides to prove that the three men could have successfully escaped, but only if their timing was perfect and specific factors were in place. Surviving Alcatraz uses modern science, recreations and archival material to tell the story of one of history's greatest, most mysterious prison escapes, establishing for the very first time that escape was entirely possible. 1x60 HD

Through a Lens Darkly: Black Photographers and the Emergence of a People

Through a Lens Darkly is the first documentary to explore the role of photography in shaping the identity, aspirations and social emergence of African Americans from slavery to the present. The film brings to light previously hidden and largely unknown images by African American photographers dating back to the very beginning of photography. These images show a more complex and nuanced view of American culture and society while exploring the ways African Americans continue to use the medium as a tool for social change. 1x88 HD

Growing Up Trans

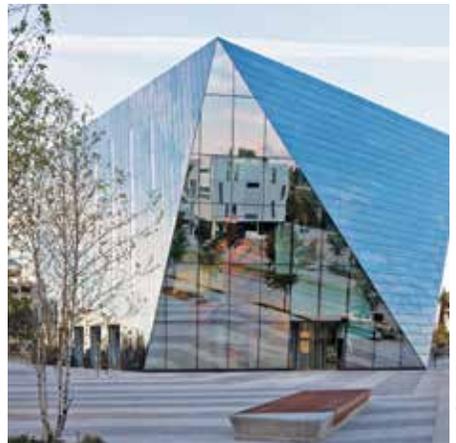

Just a generation ago, it was adults, not kids, who changed genders. But today, many children are transitioning too—with new medical options and at younger and younger ages. FRONTLINE takes viewers on an intimate journey inside this new frontier—where it's now possible for kids who feel they were born in the wrong body to never have to go through the puberty of their biological sex. Told from the perspective of parents, doctors and the kids themselves, the documentary takes a powerful look at this new generation, exploring the medical possibilities, struggles and choices transgender kids and their families face today. 1x82 HD

Jimmy Carter

In the years immediately following his single term in the White House, Jimmy Carter was frequently cited as one of the country's most ineffectual leaders. His presidency was dramatically blown off course by inflation, recession, a fractured administration and a humbling hostage crisis. But in the years since, Carter has fashioned his resurrection through almost superhuman effort, recasting himself as a giant of moral leadership. Jimmy Carter will track the ambitions of a boy his father called "hot shot" from his childhood in rural Georgia, through his turbulent years in the Oval Office to his post-presidential career as a world statesman. Part One 1x84, Part Two 1x89 SD

Making Space: Five Women Changing the Face of Architecture

For the first time in history, women are designing our world. A new generation of women are creating some of today's most iconic architectural designs—they are the rising stars in what has been an all-male industry and they are literally and figuratively changing the landscape. Making Space: Five Women Changing the Face of Architecture brings to the screen the personal journeys and outstanding designs of Annabelle Selldorf of New York, Farshid Moussavi of London, Odile Decq of Paris, Marianne McKenna of Toronto, and Kathryn Gustafson of Seattle, Washington, D.C. and London. 1x50 HD

Giraffes: The Forgotten Giants

Giraffes: The Forgotten Giants is an exciting look into the secret life of giraffes, as scientists race to understand how these magnificent creatures communicate. The documentary introduces a number of individual giraffes—both in the wild in Africa and in captivity in North America—and the scientists who trace the life cycle of these grand animals from birth to death. Anne Dagg, the pioneering “Jane Goodall” of giraffes, joins scientists carrying out new groundbreaking studies in the areas of infrasound (sound humans can’t hear), thermal imaging and biometrics using new research and state-of-the-art technology—all in the hope of uncovering the secrets that might save the disappearing species. 1x60 HD

Vampire Legend

For more than 200 years, popular culture has thrilled in the horror of the vampire—a nocturnal predator from Transylvania rising from the grave to feed on the blood of its victims. But what if vampires were real? And what if their origins actually lie in England? For the first time, Vampire Legend brings together extraordinary new archaeological finds, scientific experimentation and expert investigations to reassess not just when but where the walking dead were first thought to stalk the living. The documentary examines mutilated human remains found in so-called “deviant burials,” macabre Medieval English texts, and the grisly effects of decomposition on the human body as it picks apart the gothic fiction that has blinded society to the true tale of the vampire. 1x55 HD

PEDRO E. GUERRERO ARCHIVES

Pedro E. Guerrero: A Photographer's Life

Discover the remarkable life and work of Pedro E. Guerrero, a Mexican American born and raised in segregated Mesa, Arizona, who had an extraordinary international photography career. Using an exclusive interview with Guerrero along with his stunning images, the program explores his collaborations with three of the most iconic American artists of the 20th century: architect Frank Lloyd Wright and sculptors Alexander Calder and Louise Nevelson. Using his outsider's eye to produce insightful portraits of important modernist architecture, Guerrero became one of the most sought-after photographers of the “Mad Men” era, yet his poignant story is largely unknown. 1x53 HD

AMERICAN COMANDANTE

When he was executed outside a Havana prison on March 11, 1961, the strange story of William Morgan seemed to vanish from the popular imagination as quickly as it had appeared. Morgan was one of only a couple dozen US citizens who joined Cuban rebel forces, fighting for Fidel Castro in 1957. With government documents recently declassified, new information has come to light and Morgan's story has come back into the public eye. American Comandante has the makings of a Cold War thriller—with adventure, spies and historical figures such as J. Edgar Hoover and Chè Guevera. Eyewitness accounts from Morgan's widow and several Cubans who fought alongside him, as well as commentary from journalists and biographers, tell the story of a man who transformed from a failure to a hero and celebrity. 1x60 HD

Robots Are Coming (working title)

From the classic films Metropolis, to Bladerunner and The Terminator, robots have starred in films almost as long as we've been making them. Recent technical developments could finally turn sci-fi fantasy into reality. Exponentially growing computer power, miniaturized components, and cheap sonar, infrared, and laser sensors, are all booting up a revolution in robotics. In labs around the world, engineers and scientists are building robots to take over what have always been uniquely human jobs. In Robots Are Coming, NOVA explores the astonishing advances in robotics and the role this new technology may play in our lives. This film examines both the state of the art science and the social implications of a world filled with robots. Is this a brave new world, or a future to fear? 1x60 HD

Supplements and Safety

Over recent years, serious questions have been raised about the multibillion dollar vitamin and supplement industry. Doctors and authorities have documented cases of deceptive claims and contamination, most notably a 2010 study that found trace amounts of hazardous heavy metals or pesticides in over 90% of the supplements tested. Less well known, many rigorous studies suggest supplemental vitamins can increase your risk of cancer, chronic disease and mortality. Through an extensive investigation, Supplements and Safety illuminates the public health issues within the booming supplement market. This FRONTLINE film explores the failure of U.S. regulators to monitor the industry and raises troubling questions about the quality and safety of vitamins and dietary supplements, and about whether their health claims can be proved. 1x60 HD

The Nazi Games: Inventing the Modern Olympics (working title)

The 1936 Olympic Games in National Socialist Berlin turned a relatively ho-hum sports festival into a first-rate global event and mass media spectacle, a status quo from which the Olympic Games have never looked back. Many of the grand themes from the 1936 games still underscore contemporary Olympic Games: architectural grandiosity, shortfalls in the millions, corruption, bribery, collaboration with dictators and autocrats, and an overblown emphasis on heroism. When the Rio Games commence in 2016, it will be time to look back with clear focus on the dubious origins of the modern Olympic movement. The Nazi Games will be the first film to show that it all started in Berlin in 1936. Fall 2016, 1x60 HD

DREAM ON

Dream On investigates the perilous state of the American Dream after decades of rising income inequality and declining economic mobility. In an epic road trip, political comedian John Fugelsang retraces the journey of Alexis de Tocqueville, whose study of the young US in 1831 came to define the country as a place where anyone, of any background, could climb the ladder of economic opportunity. Following in the Frenchman's footsteps, Fugelsang asks whether the optimistic spirit of the American Dream that Tocqueville popularized is alive and well in the 21st century, or whether George Carlin was right when he famously quipped, "It's called the American Dream because you have to be asleep to believe it." 1x116 HD
