McCain
Senator John McCain (R., Ariz.) left an indelible imprint on American politics over the course of more than three decades in Congress. McCain is an exploration of Senator John McCain's complicated relationship with President Trump and the Republican Party, as well as a look back on his life and politics. Drawing on both new interviews and FRONTLINE's deep archive of reporting, McCain traces the conservative standard-bearer's motivations and his political history—from his experience as a prisoner of war in Vietnam, to speaking out against torture during the Bush administration, to his dramatic vote against the GOP's health care bill last year. APOLLO 8

NOVA tells the in-depth story of Apollo’s riskiest mission: a sixteen-week race to beat the Soviets and send three men in a tiny space capsule to, around and back from a moon a quarter of a million miles away—before 1968 came to a close. To mark the 50th anniversary of this historic mission, Apollo 8’s astronauts, Commander Frank Borman, Command Module Pilot James Lovell and Lunar Module Pilot William Anders reconvene and tell the story through a fascinating and untapped prism: the incredible science, extraordinary engineering feats and huge technological challenges that enabled them to go where no one had ever gone before. 1x60 HD

Beyond a Year in Space

Now, scientists are studying Scott to answer the pressing questions: How did space change him? And how can we keep future astronauts safe on long journeys to deep space and beyond? 1x54 HD

Space Men

In the late 1940s, the notion of space travel lived squarely in the realm of science fiction. But by the 1950s and early ’60s, a small band of high-altitude pioneers exposed themselves to the extreme forces of space, long before NASA’s acclaimed Mercury 7 would make headlines. With a fraction of NASA’s budget and none of its renown, Captain Joseph Kittinger would travel a record-breaking 102,800 feet above Earth, lifted not by rocket, but by balloon. Though largely forgotten, this group of daring explorers would be the first to venture into the frozen vacuum on the edge of our world, testing the very limits of human physiology and ingenuity in this deadly realm. 1x52 HD

Death Dive to Saturn

Almost everything we know today about the beautiful giant ringed planet comes from Cassini, the NASA mission that launched in 1997 and arrived at Saturn in 2004. Since then, the space probe has been beaming home miraculous images and scientific data, revealing countless wonders about the planet, its rings and 62 moons—including some that could harbor life. As the mission approached its final days in 2017, it made one last set of daring maneuvers—diving between the innermost ring and the top of Saturn’s atmosphere. No spacecraft has ever gone so close to Saturn. Join NASA engineers to discover the wonders that Cassini has revealed over the years. 1x53 HD

Are We Alone?

From the Kepler mission’s astounding discovery of thousands of extrasolar planets, to the exhilarating probing of planetary ecosystems within our own solar system, to the high-tech telescopes under development, the prospects for finding life beyond Earth have never been stronger. Still, there are daunting hurdles to surmount. How can we study small planets light years away? In the vast universe, where should we even start to look? Is the failure of SETI to hear any other voices in the galaxy a warning sign that advanced civilizations don’t last long? Have we simply not been looking long enough, or are there perhaps none to discover? NOVA Wonders checks in with the explorers now searching the galaxy for life and intelligence on other planets—and asks, if we do find other life in the universe...then what? Are We Alone? is part of the NOVA Wonders series. 1x60 HD
Black Hole Apocalypse
Black holes are the most enigmatic, mysterious and exotic objects in the universe. They’re also the most powerful, with gravity so strong it can actually capture light. And they’re the most destructive, swallowing dust, gas, planets, even giant stars. Anything that falls into them vanishes forever. But now, astrophysicists are realizing that black holes are essential to understanding how our universe unfolded—maybe to explaining our very existence. Meet leading astronomers and physicists on the edge of finding new answers to provocative questions about these shadowy monsters: Where do they come from? What’s inside them? What happens if you fall into one? And what can they tell us about the nature of space, time and gravity? 2x60, 1x113 HD

What’s the Universe Made Of?
Everything we experience on Earth, the stars and galaxies we see in the cosmos—all the “normal” matter that we understand—make up only 5% of the known universe. The other 95% is made up of two mysterious components: “dark matter” and “dark energy.” These two shadowy ingredients are locked in an epic battle to control the very fate of the universe. Now, scientists endeavor to shed light on the so-called “dark sector” as the latest generation of detectors rev up and powerful telescopes peer deeper into the cosmos than ever before to observe how it behaves. Find out how scientists are discovering new secrets about the history of the universe and why they’re predicting a shocking future. What’s the Universe Made Of? is part of the NOVA Wonders series. 1x60 HD

Can We Build a Brain?
Artificially intelligent machines are taking over—influencing our everyday lives in profound and often invisible ways. They can read handwriting, interpret emotions, play games and even act as personal assistants. But how does today’s A.I. actually work and is it truly intelligent? NOVA Wonders looks at how far we’ve come and where machines are headed as their software
becomes ever more...cerebral. 1x60  HD

Addiction
NOVA joins scientists and sufferers alike as they probe the mysteries of addiction. They are discovering that addiction is not simply a lack of willpower; drug abuse produces significant chemical changes in the brain—changes that are hard to control, and hard to reverse. What’s worse, many addictions start with prescription or even over-the-counter painkillers for entirely legitimate ailments. And it is not just drugs—alcohol, sugar, caffeine, even exercise can incite addictive behaviors. In the midst of the opioid crisis, and in a world in which many other diseases can be traced to addictive behavior,
NOVA investigates: how do addictions work?
And what can the science of addiction tell us about how we can resolve this dire social issue. 1x60  HD
