THE JIHADIST

More than 10 years and hundreds of thousands of deaths into the Syrian conflict, Syrian President Bashar al-Assad remains in power. In a new documentary, FRONTLINE correspondent Martin Smith travels to Syria’s Idlib province, the last remaining opposition stronghold to the Assad regime, to investigate the fight over the future of the country—including by asking tough questions of one of the most wanted men in the world: Abu Mohammad al-Jolani. 1x54 HD

COVID’s Hidden Toll

In COVID’s Hidden Toll, numerous farmworkers speak out about their experiences of having to choose between their health and their jobs—and what they say is a lack of protection from their companies. With Latino people nationwide dying from the coronavirus at a disproportionate rate, the film examines outbreaks at several growers and meat packing plants over the past several months, and how new evidence indicates that agricultural workers have faced a heightened risk of contracting COVID-19. 1x54 HD

President Biden

FRONTLINE tells the story of how crisis and tragedy prepared Joe Biden to become America’s next president. Those who know him best describe the searing moments that shaped President Biden and what they reveal about how he will govern. 1x54 HD

Death is Our Business

At Black-owned funeral homes in New Orleans, COVID-19 reshapes the grieving process. FRONTLINE explores how the pandemic has transformed mourning in a city known for its jazz-filled funerals. Also this hour, the story of a mother’s fight to survive the virus and see her newborn. 1x54 HD

Escaping Eritrea

FRONTLINE presents an unprecedented undercover investigation into one of the world’s most repressive regimes. Exclusive secret footage and testimony shed new light on shocking allegations of torture, arbitrary detention and indefinite forced conscription. 1x54 HD

Tightrope: Americans Reaching for Hope

How did the idea of “rugged individualism” become a curse for everyday Americans? Distraught over the loss of too many childhood classmates, Pulitzer Prize-winning journalists Nicholas Kristof and Sheryl WuDunn explore the causes and costs of opioid addiction, poverty and incarceration plaguing America, from the inner city to small towns like Kristof’s hometown of Yamhill, Oregon. While pockets of empathy and aid exist, are they enough to rescue the thousands of Americans in despair, for whom the American Dream of self-reliance is impossibly out of reach? 1x116 HD
The Healthcare Divide
FRONTLINE and NPR investigate the growing inequities in American healthcare exposed by COVID-19. The film shows how pressure for profit and uneven government support is widening the divide between rich and poor hospitals and endangering care for the most needy. 1x54 HD

PANDEMIC 2020
FRONTLINE and Keo Films follow the year of the pandemic, filmed around the world, from lockdowns to funerals to protests. Using extensive personal video and local footage, Pandemic 2020 explores how people and countries responded to the virus across cultures, race, faith and privilege. 3x60 HD

Emmett Till, James Chaney, Medgar Evers, and four little girls from Birmingham—these are the stories we know. But the Emmett Till Unsolved Civil Rights Crime Act lifted the veil on many more victims of racially motivated violence for whom there still has been no justice. The federal legislation mandated that the Justice Department and the FBI investigate and, when possible, prosecute unsolved civil-rights-era murders, and it gave families new hope after years of disappointment. But since the Act was passed, the Justice Department has made no new indictments, and has closed the majority of cases of 151 known victims, leaving open wounds, and perpetuating a sense of injustice. In partnership with Retro Report and WNET's Chasing the Dream, American Reckoning is the story of one of those cases, the killing of NAACP leader Wharlest Jackson in Natchez, Mississippi in 1967, a family's search for answers, and the history and limits of a federal effort to right wrongs in our country's past. 1x54 HD

American Veteran
Today, America has nearly 18 million living military veterans, from the "Greatest Generation" to men and women coming home from recent tours in Afghanistan and Iraq. This film illuminates the veteran experience with a moving range of voices from today and across the arc of American history. Narrated by veterans Drew Carey, Senator Tammy Duckworth, Wes Studi and J.R. Martinez. 4x60 HD

Return from ISIS
In November, Sam Sally, also known as Sam Ehassani, was sentenced to six-and-a-half years in prison for aiding ISIS—making her the first American woman brought back from Syria or Iraq and convicted on ISIS-related terrorism charges. How did this American mother end up living in the heart of ISIS's self-declared caliphate in Syria, with her husband an ISIS sniper, and her 10-year-old son forced to threaten President Donald Trump in a propaganda video shown around the world? FRONTLINE tells the inside story in Return From ISIS, a documentary that has been nearly four years in the making. 1x54 HD

AMERICAN RECKONING
Emmett Till, James Chaney, Medgar Evers, and four little girls from Birmingham—these are the stories we know. But the Emmett Till Unsolved Civil Rights Crime Act lifted the veil on many more victims of racially motivated violence for whom there still has been no justice. The federal legislation mandated that the Justice Department and the FBI investigate and, when possible, prosecute unsolved civil-rights-era murders, and it gave families new hope after years of disappointment. GERMANY’S NEO-NAZIS AND THE FAR RIGHT

FRONTLINE investigates the rise of far-right extremism and violence in Germany. The film uncovers how extremists have carried out terror plots and attacks on Jews and migrants, infiltrated the security services, and what authorities are doing to confront the growing problem. 1x54 HD

Love Parade: The Trial

In 2010, hundreds of thousands of electronic music lovers took pilgrimage to Duisburg to celebrate, but the day tragically ended in a fatal stampede—21 attendees died and 652 more were injured and traumatized. What went wrong? Love Parade: The Trial reveals the corporate greed and public negligence at the expense of young people from around the world gathering for a music festival. With unprecedented access, the film unravels the worst disaster in counter-culture history. 1x53, 1x81 HD

American Insurrection

From FRONTLINE, this timely new documentary probes the far-right groups and leaders responsible for the recent threats and violence in the U.S. Correspondent A.C. Thompson, director Rick Rowley and producers Karim Hajj and Jacquie Soohen explore how far-right groups were emboldened and encouraged by former President Trump, how individuals were radicalized and brought into the political landscape—and what the fears and concerns are going forward. A stunning and urgent report, American Insurrection investigates the threat posed by violent, far-right groups that see themselves as defending the U.S. constitution but are tied to anti-government, white supremacist ideologies and criminality. 1x52, 1x84 HD

America After 9/11

The attack on September 11, 2001 so dramatically transformed America, at home and abroad, that twenty years later the aftershocks of that fateful day are still being felt. FRONTLINE’s political investigation team reveals the searing impact of that attack on four American presidents—as the nation’s global power atrophied, and the commitment to democracy, human rights and rule of law was sorely tested. To tell that story, the PBS FRONTLINE project America After 9/11 is conducting dozens of interviews in Washington, Europe, and the Middle East. The film traces the narrative arc from the U.S. Capitol steps on the evening of 9/11, when bi-partisan members of Congress spontaneously joined arms and sang “America the Beautiful,” to the armed assault on that very building on January 6, 2021. How this two-decade descent happened is at the heart of America After 9/11. 1x120 HD

Generation 9/11

Of the almost 3,000 people who died on 9/11, around one hundred were fathers of babies who were not yet born. Generation 9/11 follows the lives of a number of these children and their families, as we track their journeys into adulthood. Through their eyes, this bold and innovative documentary blends intimate, individual stories alongside a broader exploration of how the United States has evolved—culturally, politically, socially—since 2001. 2x56 HD
Spying on the Royals

Spying on the Royals tells the secret story of what may be the most controversial surveillance in British history. On the frozen weekend of December 5, 1936, a nerve-shredded King Edward VIII sat alone at Buckingham Palace. He secretly phoned his brother, to tell him he could no longer be King if it meant abandoning the woman he loved. His brother was the future King George VI. Edward's lover was Wallis Simpson. Little did they know that others were secretly listening to their calls. Years later, when Edward and Wallis visited an exclusive American resort, they thought they were enjoying an intimate break in complete privacy. In fact their every word was recorded, their room bugged with secret microphones, and their phone tapped. The greatest royal romance of the 20th century can now be seen through a unique new perspective: the secret files of those who spied on Edward VIII, Wallis Simpson and a King-to-be in their own words from the time, and eyewitnesses still living today.

Spain's Secret Conquest

Spain's Secret Conquest uncovers one story of America's past that never made it into textbooks. Follow some of America's leading archaeologists, maritime scientists, and historians as they share the story of Spain's earliest explorers. It's a story that has taken more than 450 years to reveal.
HISTORY

Tulsa: The Fire and the Forgotten

Directed by Jonathan Silvers, and reported by The Washington Post’s DeNeen L. Brown, Tulsa: The Fire and the Forgotten looks back at the explosion of violence when the once prosperous neighborhood known as “Black Wall Street” was destroyed by a mob of white residents. Hundreds of Black-owned businesses and homes in the Greenwood district of Tulsa, Oklahoma, were burnt to the ground, killing an estimated 100–300 Black residents and leaving an estimated 10,000 Black residents homeless. This feature documentary, narrated by Emmy-winning journalist Michel Martin, Amanpour and Company contributor and weekend host of NPR’s All Things Considered, also chronicles present-day public efforts to memorialize the Tulsa Race Massacre and other racial violence around the country, and how Black and white communities view such efforts. 1x84 HD

Sandra Day O’Connor

For 191 years the U.S. Supreme Court was populated only by men. When Ronald Reagan nominated Sandra Day O’Connor as the first female justice in 1981, the announcement dominated the news. A pioneer who both reflected and shaped an era, in her 25 years as justice she was the swing vote in cases about some of the 20th century’s most controversial issues—including race, gender and reproductive rights. 1x112, 2x54 HD

The Murder of Emmett Till

In August 1955, a 14-year-old Black boy named Emmett Till allegedly insulted a white woman in a grocery store in Money, Mississippi. Three days later, he was dragged from his bed in the dead of night by two white men who beat him brutally and shot him in the head. The murder and trial horrified the nation and the world. Till’s death was a spark that helped mobilize the civil rights movement. 1x57 HD

The Blinding of Isaac Woodard

In 1946, Isaac Woodard, a Black army sergeant on his way home to South Carolina after serving in WWII, was taken off a Greyhound bus after a heated exchange with the driver, who refused to let him off at a rest stop to use the restroom. The local chief of police savagely beat him, leaving him unconscious and permanently blind. The shocking incident made national headlines and, when the police chief was acquitted by an all-white jury, the injustice would change the course of American history. Based on Richard Gergel’s book Unexampled Courage, the film details how the crime led to the racial awakening of South Carolina Judge J. Waties Waring and President Harry Truman, who desegregated the military and federal offices two years later. It also ultimately set the stage for the Supreme Court’s landmark 1954 Brown v. Board of Education decision, which finally outlawed segregation in public schools and jumpstarted the modern civil rights movement. 2x54, 1x113 HD

Tiananmen: The People Versus the Party

The man. The myth. The writer revealed.

HEMINGWAY

A FILM BY KEN BURNS AND LYNN NOVICK

Hemingway examines the visionary work and turbulent life of one of the greatest and most influential writers the world has ever produced—a man who changed the course of literature with his spare, luminous, aggressively modern style, and his unflinching, hard-edged but also deeply romantic stories, novels and essays. This documentary film from Ken Burns and Lynn Novick celebrates Hemingway’s genius, illuminates his complicated character, makes sense of the tragedy of his final years, explains the ways in which the life he lived and his fame influenced his writing and situates him within the context of the 20th century. It is a story that is epic and intimate, profoundly personal and transcendentally universal, and it is a story that has never before been told on film. 6x60 or 3x120 HD

When L. Frank Baum published The Wonderful Wizard of Oz in 1900, he was 44 years old and had spent much of his life in restless pursuit of his American dream. After working and failing at a string of odd jobs that honed his instincts for showmanship—chicken breeder, actor, marketer of petroleum products, shopkeeper, newspaperman and traveling salesman—Baum and his family headed west from their home in Syracuse, New York, in 1888. During his travels from Chicago to the Great Plains during the American frontier’s final days, he witnessed a nation coming to terms with the economic uncertainty of the Gilded Age. But he never lost his childlike sense of wonder and eventually crafted his observations into an enduring, magical tale of survival, adventure and self-discovery. American Oz tells the remarkable story of the man behind one of the most beloved and quintessential classics, reinterpreted through the generations in films, books and musicals. 2x54, 1x113 HD

The Black Church

The Black Church: This Is Our Story, This Is Our Song, hosted by Henry Louis Gates, Jr, chronicles the rich history of an institution at the heart of the African American experience. Beginning with enslavement, traveling through Emancipation, Jim Crow, the Great Migration, the Civil Rights movement, and ending in the present-day, Gates takes viewers on a journey through time, focusing on the key events, charismatic figures, political debates, and musical traditions that have shaped, and been shaped by, the Black Church. The series also explores the complexity of these spaces of worship at a time when many believe it is at a crossroads. A chorus of leading scholars, ministers, and cultural influencers who grew up in the Black Church will weigh in and give meaning to events past and present. 4x40 HD

The women’s movement has gone mainstream: from the first female presidential nominee to the inclusion of a woman of color on a major party ticket, from the Women’s March to #MeToo, from Black Lives Matter to the fight for trans lives. Premiering amid an unprecedented pandemic and widespread social upheaval, Not Done shines a light on today’s feminists who are paving the way for true equality. 1x55 HD
The Changemakers
Illuminating the stories of extraordinary American heroines from the early years of feminism, The Changemakers from AMERICAN MASTERS is a multimedia series consisting of a one-hour special for broadcast and 26 digital short films featuring courageous, little-known and diverse female trailblazers from the turn of the 20th century. These women achieved many firsts, including earning an international pilot’s license, becoming a bank president, founding a hospital, fighting for the desegregation of public spaces, exploring the Arctic, opening a film studio and singing opera at Carnegie Hall. Presenting history in a bold new way, The Changemakers brings these incredible stories back to life through original artwork and animation, rare historical archival footage, and interviews with descendants, historians and accomplished modern women who reflect upon the influence of these pioneers. 1x53 HD + 26 x various shorts

Voice of Freedom
On Easter Sunday, 1939, contralto Marian Anderson stepped up to a microphone in front of the Lincoln Memorial. Inscribed on the walls of the monument behind her were the words “all men are created equal.” Barred from performing in Constitution Hall because of her race, Anderson would sing for the American people in the open air. Hailed as a voice that “comes around once in a hundred years” by maestros in Europe and widely celebrated by both white and Black audiences at home, her fame hadn’t been enough to spare her from the indignities and outright violence of racism and segregation. Voice of Freedom interweaves Anderson’s rich life story with this landmark moment in history, exploring fundamental questions about talent, race, fame, democracy, and the American soul. 1x100, 2x53 HD

The Queen and the Coup
On the first anniversary of Queen Elizabeth II’s reign, she had no idea she was about to be deployed in a secret plot to topple Iran’s democratic leader in favor of an all-powerful Shah. Planned by MI6 and executed by the CIA, the coup would destroy relations between Iran and the West to this very day. The truth was hidden even from the Queen herself. Using newly declassified secret documents, The Queen and the Coup unravels this incredible story for the first time. 1x47 HD
Could the source of the world’s deadliest viruses hold the secret to a healthier and longer life? Bats have a sinister reputation as potential sources for some of the deadliest disease outbreaks: Ebola, MERS, SARS, and most recently, SARS-CoV-2, the virus behind the COVID-19 global pandemic. Yet scientists are discovering new evidence that bats are biological marvels and may hold a key to longevity. Not only are these airborne mammals the fastest recorded flyers in the sky, they’re resistant to the diseases they carry and have freakishly long lifespans for their tiny size. So, what’s their secret? Could bats’ unique flying abilities be tied to their super-charged immunity? And what else can we learn from their peculiar biology? From caves in Thailand and Texas, to an infested bell tower in France, to labs around the globe, NOVA meets the scientists who are decoding the superpowers of the bat. 1x60 HD

From crunchy cricket chips to nutty black soldier fly grubs, Edible Insects leaps across cultural and culinary boundaries to explore the insect food industry and how it could benefit our health and our warming planet. From Thailand to Texas, cricket farmers are showing how the tiny critters stack up as an environmentally friendly alternative to beef protein. In fact, as one of the show’s many gastro-surprises reveals, insects make animal protein vastly more efficiently than cows and, pound for pound, deliver far better nutritional value than the finest steak. Unappealing as an insect milkshake might sound, it may promote the growth of healthy gut bacteria that could help prevent inflammation and cancer. But what about the “ick” factor? NOVA invites a panel of volunteers to sample an invitingly prepared tasting menu of roasted crickets, ants, mealworms, and chipotle-flavored grasshoppers prepared by a New York chef, and, not surprisingly, some of the diners have trouble concealing their squeamishness. Yet all the evidence adds up to the idea that our aversion to insects is mostly a matter of attitude and cultural conditioning. So will your kitchen table soon host its very own savory insect feast? 1x60 HD

Does Sex Really Matter?
All over the world, a strange trend in healthcare is emerging. Diseases are killing far more men than women. The global female cancer death rate is 50 percent lower than male, 26 percent fewer women die of tuberculosis, diabetes kills 17 million more men in a year than women, and 40 percent fewer women die of HIV. So why are so many men dying of these diseases? Are men the weaker sex? In this one-off special, we go on a gripping journey of discovery to solve the mystery of why women are so much more robust than men. 1x49 HD

Power Trip: The Story of Energy
The story of how societies rise can be told by tracing the story of energy. Power Trip: The Story of Energy explores humanity’s most important resource by revealing the energy embedded in our water, food, wealth, cities, transportation and war. As our modern world faces growing demand for and worsening environmental impacts from energy, we are at a crossroads and the stakes are high. But history shows us that energy’s great value is that it allows societies to reinvent themselves. Filmed in stunning locations around the world, Power Trip explores how energy has transformed societies of the past and offers wisdom for today’s looming energy crisis. Energy advances always come with costs, some of which won’t be seen until centuries later. Our current energy crisis is real, but it is solvable. We have the power. 6x60 HD

H2O: The Molecule That Made Us
Earth is alive because of liquid water and the success of our human story is intimately connected to our relationship with this simple molecule. But the growth of our civilizations has created a dangerous dependence on a precious resource that may be about to run out. This three-part series explores just how critical water is to our survival and the challenges that are facing us. 3x55 HD

Cuba’s Cancer Hope
When the U.S. trade embargo left Cuba isolated from medical resources, Cuban doctors were forced to get creative. Now they’ve developed lung cancer vaccines that show so much promise, some Americans are defying the embargo and traveling to Cuba for treatment. In an unprecedented move, Cuban researchers are working with U.S. partners to make the medicines more widely available. 1x54 HD

Mysteries of Sleep
From fruit flies to whales, virtually every animal sleeps. But why? Why do we need to spend nearly a third of our lives in such a vulnerable, defenseless state? Scientists are peering more deeply into the sleeping brain than ever before, discovering just how powerful sleep can be, playing a role in everything from memory retention and emotional regulation to removing waste from our brains. So why are we getting so little of it? 1x53 HD
THE CANNABIS QUESTION

A huge social experiment is underway. Fifty-five million Americans say they currently use cannabis, and that number is expected to grow as voters push for legalization in more and more states. Though many believe cannabis is benign, and even beneficial, the federal government classifies it—like heroin—as a Schedule 1 drug, one that has no medical uses and poses serious safety concerns. Because of its classification, research on the plant’s complex chemical makeup—and its effects on users—is lagging. Cannabis contains 100 different cannabinoids, chemicals that mimic ones found throughout our bodies. One is THC, which produces the high associated with cannabis use. Another, called CBD, shows promise for treating seizures, PTSD, opioid addiction, and insomnia. NOVA investigates the story of cannabis in the U.S., from the criminalization that has disproportionately harmed communities of color to the latest medical understanding of the plant. What risks does cannabis pose to the developing brain? How much do we know about its potential medical benefits? As cannabis becomes socially accepted, scientists are racing to understand its long-term health consequences. 1x60 HD

SUSTAINABILITY PROJECTS

First We Eat
First We Eat puts food security to the test in the far North of Canada. Filmmaker Suzanne Crocker, living just 300 kilometres from the Arctic Circle, removes absolutely all grocery store food from her house. For one year, she feeds her family of five, only food that can be hunted, fished, gathered, grown or raised around Dawson City, Yukon. Add three skeptical teenagers, one reluctant husband, no salt, no caffeine, no sugar, and -40 temperatures. Ultimately the story becomes a celebration of community and the surprising bounty of food that even a tiny community in the far North can provide. 1x55, 1x101 HD

All the Time in the World
In search of a new perspective, a family of five leave the comforts of home to live remotely in the Yukon wilderness during the long northern winter and amidst the surprises that the rawness of nature provide. The parents leave their jobs and take their three children, ages 10, 8 and 4, to spend nine months living in a small cabin with no road access, no electricity, no running water, and no internet, no TV, no phone and, most importantly, no clocks or watches. Filmed over 9 months, off the grid, without external crew, and featuring the unique perspectives of children, All The Time In The World explores the theme of disconnecting from our hectic and technology laden lives in order to reconnect with each other, ourselves and our natural environment—parents connecting with children, children connecting with nature. 1x52, 1x86 HD

Great Electric Airplane Race
NOVA looks at the array of promising new electric planes on the horizon and takes you for a ride in some impressive prototypes that are already in the air—such as Burt Rutan’s Long-ESA that can fly at over 200 mph and climb to 3,000 feet in under six minutes. Boeing, Airbus, Raytheon and other major companies are currently racing to develop practical short-haul passenger planes that promise to slash the operating costs and emissions of regular flights. But first, significant hurdles of battery weight, energy storage and cooling must be overcome. How long will it be before the dream of super-quiet, super-efficient airliners becomes a reality? 1x53 HD

Fighting For Fertility
In the United States, some 10% of people who wish to have children struggle with infertility. It’s especially common in the African American community, and fertility perseveration can be difficult for transgender individuals as well. But why is this? And what can be done about it? NOVA explores barriers to fertility, from the social to the biological, and the state of assisted reproductive technologies. Follow the journeys of people navigating challenges from structural inequalities and racism to falling sperm counts, egg freezing, and IVF. 1x54 HD
Can We Cool the Planet?
Extreme weather and rising seas are causing global unrest, and many scientists believe that if we cannot curb planetary warming, it could pose an existential threat to human civilization. As it becomes clear that emission reductions alone may not be enough to avoid dire effects of climate change, a growing collective of scientists and engineers are developing technologies to hack Earth's operating system—from manipulating our atmosphere to reflect sunlight, to sucking carbon dioxide right out of the air, to enlisting plants to do the job for us. This is the controversial landscape of geoengineering—the effort to build controls for Earth's thermostat. NOVA joins scientists and skeptics alike to examine technologies that could help us combat a looming threat. 1x55 HD

Ship that Changed the World
Five centuries ago, the Age of Exploration and Europe's imperial colonization of far-off lands was launched by a revolution in ship design that made long-distance ocean voyages practical. But exactly how this momentous innovation happened eludes historians. Now, the excavation of a rare intact wreck discovered off the coast of Sweden offers vital new clues to a maritime mystery. 1x54 HD

The Frozen Chosen
For sixteen days each winter a vast frozen lake in North America becomes the epicenter of an ancient ritual. Brave hunters venture out on the windswept ice armed with seven-foot spears. Their quarry is a prehistoric fish, the Giant Lake Sturgeon (Acipenser fulvescens). These living fossils are virtually unchanged from their ancestors that lived 100 million years ago in the age of the dinosaurs. Lake Sturgeon can live for over 100 years and grow to 300 pounds. The Frozen Chosen brings you face to face with these giant fish and shoulder to shoulder with the hunters obsessed with hunting them. 1x53 HD

Secrets In Our DNA
Millions of people have sent their DNA to be analyzed by private companies, which are revealing customers' ancestry and family connections, and reporting health risks. But what are the pitfalls and unintended consequences of sharing genetic data? 1x54 HD

Nature’s Fear Factor

A bold experiment to bring fierce African wild dogs back to Gorongosa National Park in Mozambique reveals how predators—and the fear they trigger—play a surprising and crucial role in keeping wild ecosystems healthy. It’s a grand experiment with risks all around. Will the rare wild dogs survive the relocation, bond into a pack, and find a new home in the park? Will their arrival harm prey species recovering from a war that shattered the lives of humans and animals alike? Or will the wild dogs set this fabled national park on the road to health and balance, and be a beacon of hope for environmental recovery efforts worldwide? 1x52 HD

Rise of the Mammals

Sixty-six million years ago, an asteroid slammed into Earth, bringing the dinosaurs’ reign to a fiery end. But from this catastrophe, tiny mammal survivors were able to emerge from the shadows and flourish. Today we live in the age of mammals, with a staggering array of species, from lions to bats to whales. But how did our predecessors evolve so rapidly and diversify into the range of creatures we know today? An astonishing new trove of fossils is finally providing some answers. NOVA takes you to Colorado, where fossils hidden inside ordinary-looking rocks provide a dramatic picture of how life rebounded in the first million years after the asteroid impact. They show how plants and animals evolved together, and how rat-sized mammals—safe from dinosaurs’ jaws—ballooned in size at an astounding rate. What the fossils tell us may transform our understanding of our fellow mammals—and how life can recover after a mass extinction. 1x53 HD

The Serengeti Rules

Academy Award-winning Passion Pictures and HHMI Tangled Bank Studios present one of the most important but untold science stories of our time—a tale with profound implications for the fate of life on our planet. Beginning in the 1960s, a small band of young scientists headed out into the wilderness, driven by an insatiable curiosity about how nature works. Immersed in some of the most remote and spectacular places on Earth—from the majestic Serengeti to the Amazon jungle; from the Arctic Ocean to Pacific tide pools—they discovered a single set of rules that govern all life. Now in the twilight of their eminent careers, these unsung heroes of modern ecology share the stories of their adventures, reveal how their pioneering work flipped our view of nature on its head, and give us a chance to reimagine the world as it could and should be. 1x51, 1x84 HD

Rise of the Redwood Giants

Coastal California is home to one of the world’s oldest and most iconic residents—the redwoods. These old timers give shelter to an exuberant cast of animal characters. Thousands of convergent ladybugs use their roots to mate and hibernate. While the wandering salamander can spend it’s entire life in the redwood canopy. See all that resides from root to canopy in the Rise of the Redwood Giants. 1x48 HD

The Good, the Bad, and the Deadly

Don’t let the fences and cattle fool you, this classic Texas ranch is still the Wild West and it has the wild animals to prove it. From a coterie of black-tailed prairie dogs just beyond the ranch fences, to a black widow spider in the barn stalls, there is much more to a Texas ranch than meets the eye. In The Good, The Bad, and the Deadly, see how life is all about working together to get things done. 1x48 HD
On the Front Line: The Rangers of Gorongosa National Park

In Mozambique’s Gorongosa National Park, a team of 260 Rangers are charged with protecting this beautiful conservation area from a host of threats such as poaching and illegal logging. Hundreds of candidates from local communities gather to participate in the intensive physical and mental examinations required to be considered eligible to become a Gorongosa Ranger. For the first time in the history of the park, women are able to sign up for the job. This documentary tells the inspiring story of the rangers who are chosen to proudly wear the uniform. 1x57, 1x84 HD

Cat Tales

They may have stolen many hearts—and the internet—but cats can be perplexing pets. As cuddly and playful as they are aloof and uncaring, they’ve often raised the question: Did humans ever really domesticate felines? And what more can science tell us about a relationship that predates history? 1x54 HD

Dog Tales

Dogs have long been dependable companions by our sides. But it wasn’t always that way, and a look at their closest living relative, the wolf, makes it clear why. Research into dog domestication and intelligence offers clues into what the human-dog relationship is all about. And analyzing dogs’ brain activity and genes may even help answer the question of whether dogs are in it for the food—or if they really love us. 1x54 HD

Mae West: Dirty Blonde

Mae West achieved great acclaim in every entertainment medium that existed during her lifetime, spanning eight decades of the 20th century. A full-time actress at seven, a vaudevillian at 14, a dancing sensation at 25, a Broadway playwright at 33, a silver screen ingénue at 40, a Vegas nightclub act at 62, a recording artist at 73, a camp icon at 85—West left no format unconquered. She possessed creative and economic powers unheard of for a female entertainer in the 1930s and still rare today. Though she was a comedian, West grappled with some of the more complex social issues of the 20th century, including race and class tensions, and imbued even her most salacious plotlines with commentary about gender conformity, societal restrictions and what she perceived as moral hypocrisy. 1x52, 1x83 HD
